Institute of Economic Affairs (IEA)

<http://ieagh.org/>

« The Institute of Economic Affairs Ghana (IEA) is Ghana’s Premier Public Policy Institute. Established in 1989 by a young Ghanaian economist, Dr. Charles Mensa, the IEA was set up with a view to broadening the debate on public policy; engendering private sector led economic growth, and strengthening the pillars of democracy. Ultimately our work is informed by our vision – an economically viable and democratic Ghana, West Africa and ultimately Africa in which the rule of law prevails, the institutions of democracy are protected and respected and the rights and freedoms of the citizens are enjoyed by them. Our mission is to promote good governance, democracy and a free and fair market economy. We believe that the creation of an environment in which economic, social, political and legal institutions function openly and freely is the key to sustainable economic growth and human development. »

« Les principales activités de recherche du CODESRIA se font dans le cadre des groupes nationaux de travail (GNT), groupes multinationaux de travail (GMT), groupes transnationaux de travail (GTT), des réseaux de recherche comparative (RRC) et des livrets verts. Ces activités de recherche constituent un moyen essentiel à travers lequel le CODESRIA intervient auprès de la communauté africaine de la recherche en sciences sociales. En ce qui concerne les projets de recherche orientés vers les politiques, ils servent de base importante à l’opérationnalisation des résultats de la recherche au profit des décideurs politiques et économiques ainsi que des acteurs de la société civile. Les projets de recherche sont parfois initiés en collaboration avec des institutions de recherche à l’intérieur ou à l’extérieur de l’Afrique de même qu’avec des partenaires tels que les agences du système des Nations Unies, les organismes d’aide au développement, les organisations de la société civile, etc. »
